M&M Industries, Inc. maintains copies of individual component supplier certifications and will supply on request.

The raw materials used in the manufacture of the white pails and lids are derived from non-animal sources. M&M Industries, Inc. does not certify the packaging to the Kosher or Halal protocol, but the products do comply with their dietary laws.

M&M Industries, Inc. is not aware of the presence of any FDA listed major food allergens (Food Labeling and Consumer Protection Act of 2004) in the direct contact raw materials. M&M Industries, Inc. does not intentionally add allergens in the manufacturing process, nor does it routinely test for the presence of these substances. Based on knowledge of the raw materials and manufacturing processes, major food allergens are not expected to be present.

This certification is applicable only to the products listed above and purchased directly from M&M Industries, Inc. This certification is transferrable provided the products are resold in the same condition as purchased from M&M Industries, Inc. The food product manufacturer is responsible for ensuring compliance with all relevant FDA requirements for finished food products.
